MUSIC & LITURGY NOTES

Over the next few weeks, I will be writing about funeral liturgies. One of the more challenging aspects for me of working in the church is meeting with grieving families and friends to plan the funeral Mass of a loved one. It is difficult in many ways, first of which being that a lot of emotions are at play. Music schools do not teach their students how to work with people in distress, so I have had to learn this skill by observing others. For some, thinking about funeral arrangements might seem to be a macabre subject, but, through our faith, it is actually quite the opposite. If we have a good understanding of what our Church teaches, the funeral liturgy is an occasion of celebration. Meeting with a family to plan a funeral is not an ideal time to offer a lesson in liturgical catechesis, thus, over the next few weeks, I hope that you will allow me to offer my knowledge on the subject and to explain the Church's liturgical directives and teachings. A reminder about all liturgies and Masses – Christ is the focal point. It is through Christ and the Mass that we know God, love God, and serve God in this life and the next. Understanding that is a good place for us to start this discussion. (continued)

I will be away this week attending the biannual conference of the American Guild of Organists in Houston, Texas. The Guild is the largest national professional association serving church musicians. Their conferences usually attract over 2,000 church musicians from around the world. Throughout the four days, there are numerous workshops, liturgies, and concerts. Workshops are based on a variety of topics: organ playing, choral training, handbells, technology, fundraising, and administration to name a few. There are usually two liturgies a day offered in a number of denominational practices (I know many of you can think of a better way to spend your summer days other than going to church twice per day), and there are also numerous organ and choral concerts throughout the conference. It is not only an excellent learning experience, but it also inspires me in my service as a church musician, a profession which can easily lead some to burn out. One of the primary venues for the conference is the new co-Cathedral of the Sacred Heart, with its vast interior space, superb acoustics, and world-class organ made by the Paul Fritts firm of Tacoma, Washington (you can watch videos of this instrument on YouTube). The Cardinal-Archbishop of Houston is a Pittsburgh priest (yes, we really are everywhere), Cardinal Dan DiNardo. Cardinal DiNardo sang in the Pittsburgh Diocesan Choir as a seminarian and has a profound respect for sacred music. When the architect of the cathedral made a mistake in the building of the west wall that left no space for a pipe organ, the Cardinal asked that the wall be taken down, redesigned and rebuilt so that an organ, the instrument of the Church, can be built. You don't hear about that happening too often. Another wonderful attribute of the co-Cathedral is that they sing my Mass setting, the Mass of Saint Ignatius, which we are also using for the Eucharistic Acclamations during the summer months. It is a wonderful thought that we worship with the same music as our fellow Catholics in the Lone Star State.

God our Father,
in your wisdom and love you made all things.
Bless all fathers,
that they may be strengthened as Christian fathers.
Let the example of their faith and love shine forth.
Grant that we, their sons and daughters,
may honor them always with a profound respect.

In December alone, more than 9,000 healthy holiday hams and food packages were sold and delivered to families. Then, just before the New Year, the staff and volunteers at SHARE immediately turned around to expand their support by moving from their 25-year-old warehouse into a new state-of-the-art facility. Now, the SHARE Food Network is better prepared than ever to help low-income families find good, affordable food. STEWARDSHIP

*"Who do you say that I am?"
Jesus asks Peter in today's Gospel.
Does my use of the gifts and talents entrusted to me accurately reflect my answer to that same question?
How willing am I to deny myself, take up my cross, and follow in His steps? (See Luke 9:20)*

SECOND COLLECTION: PETER'S PENCE

Next weekend, June 25/26, the Archdiocese of Washington will take up the Peter's Pence collection. Gifts to this annual collection help the Holy Father support victims of war, oppression, natural disasters, and others most in need of assistance. Our participation in this collection gives us an opportunity to be a witness of Our Lord's love and mercy for the vulnerable and suffering around the world. Please give generously as you are able.

POOR BOX

The Poor Box next weekend, June 25/26, will benefit St. Martin's Cloak. In the spirit of St. Martin, who tore his military cloak in half to share with a beggar, St. Martin's Cloak provides financial and other assistance to those in need, particularly those in our parish. Financial assistance is completely confidential. Long term problems are referred to community resources.

PUT YOUR CONTRIBUTION ENVELOPES ON A PERMANENT "SUMMER VACATION" AND MAKE THE SWITCH TO E-GIVING.

By embracing this practice, you will simplify your giving and help provide our parish with consistent support.

This is especially important in the summer months, when families may be out of town and St. Jane de Chantal does not receive their envelopes.

It is easy for people to forget to catch up once they are back, and our weekly offertory can fluctuate as a result — making it harder to predict how much we will have to sustain our year-round ministries. Making the switch is easy: You can enroll online at www.faithdirect.net or pick up a paper enrollment form in the gathering space of church.

Our parish code is MD30.

“Very often it is grandparents who ensure that the most important values are passed down to their grandchildren, and ‘many people can testify that they owe their initiation into the Christian life to their grandparents’ (Relatio finalis 2015, 18). Their words, their affection or simply their presence help children to realize that history did not begin with them, that they are now part of an age-old pilgrimage and that they need to respect all that came before them. Those who would break all ties with the past will surely find it difficult to build stable relationships and to realize that reality is bigger than they are.”

Francis, apostolic exhortation, Amoris laetitia 192.
