MUSIC & LITURGY NOTES

A special thank you to our young parishioners Gina-Marie and Emily Tennant for leading music at the Sunday morning Masses last weekend. I should be back with you this weekend (if all goes well in the friendly skies!), but, as I write this I am in Hamburg, Germany, finishing research for my doctoral dissertation. There is not much time for pleasure or fun this week; most of my time will be spent reading and writing in the Hamburg University library and doing archival work at the Rudolf von Beckerath organ factory, whose founder I am writing about. Beckerath built about 18 noteworthy (in terms of size and place of installation) instruments in the United States from 1957 until his death in 1976. One of his most notable installations is in St. Paul Cathedral in Pittsburgh. That instrument was the first pipe organ that I played as a young kid, and I later spent many hours practicing and performing on it as the cathedral's assistant organist during my college years. It is an amazing instrument; one that teaches an organist how to play more than any human teacher ever could. Beckerath built his instruments according to time-honored principals of Baroque organs built during the time of J.S. Bach. There are very few American instruments that can replicate a Beckerath's unique musical identity and my dissertation, over 200 pages long at this point, is full of arguing Beckerath's unique and influential position in mid-twentieth century American musical culture. All of this is just a preamble to what I would like to share with you in the next few weeks. While I am officially here on "business," I spent last Saturday and Sunday attending four different church services. This might seem like a lot, especially when one might presume that I would take advantage of having a break from multiple weekly church services, but, being Catholic, I must to go to Mass, and because I am a church musician, I am always curious of how other churches, including those in other denominations and cultures, worship. Last Saturday evening I had the opportunity to attend Mass at the Mariendom, Hamburg's Roman Catholic Cathedral. It is not a large church according to cathedral-like standards, but, considering that Hamburg is a Protestant-rich north German city, it is a rarity that there even is a cathedral church, especially one with a convenient downtown location. I have a lot of thoughts on the worship experience and I look forward to sharing them with you next week!

If the Federal Government is opening on a delayed schedule, we will hold both the 8:00 am and 11:00 am Masses.

GIVING TREE THANKS

We received many expressions of thanks throughout the preparation and delivery process of our parish Giving Tree project. These are some examples: "I want to thank you so much again. This is such a blessing." from the Gabriel Project. "Thank you very much for the gifts. The residents of Manor Care enjoyed them all!" signed by the Activities Dept. Our sincere thanks for once again supporting this project which benefits homeless individuals, nursing home residents, low income families, troubled teens, as well as our beloved Sisters of Charity. We are inspired by the generosity and commitment of this parish to help others. —Denise Sintetos and Colleen Hadigan.

CHILDREN'S LITURGY OF THE WORD

In the past, our parish has offered a Children's Liturgy of the Word ministry to children between the ages of 5 and 10 at the Saturday 5:00 pm Mass. This program was unfortunately cancelled last Fall due to a lack of volunteer leadership. However, we would like to revive this vital ministry for the remainder of the Winter and Spring months. At Mass, after the Opening Prayer, the children leave the church with adult leaders and go down to the Scanlon Meeting Room where they have the readings proclaimed to them on their own level with a presentation/dialogue about the readings. After the children have completed their Liturgy of the Word, they return to the main church sometime during the offertory. In order for us to provide this offering for our children, the assistance of several adults is necessary in order to prepare the readings, and to lead the presentation and dialogue with the children. Interested persons should contact Russell Weismann, Director of Liturgy and Music, at the parish office. This is a wonderful way for our adults to share with our children the Catholic faith. All adults need to complete the archdiocesan Virtus/Protecting God's Children training and clearance protocol.

IN OUR FAITH FORMATION PROGRAMS

Visit the Faith Formation page at www.stjanedechantal.org for information on the various programs, registration forms and calendars.

We congratulate three winners from St. Jane de Chantal: Michael Blackstone, Reese Long, and Braden Groce.

HOOPS FOR HEART

STEWARDSHIP

*There is a certain urgency in today's Gospel as Jesus calls His first disciples — Andrew and Simon, James and John. Each one follows Jesus immediately, unhesitatingly abandoning nets and boats and father and fellow-workers.
To what is Jesus calling me — at this moment, in these circumstances?
What will I need to abandon in order to follow Him?*
